Updating of the „ECTS Manual“ in the Medine II project

Why this Manual?

The Medine Task Force "International Recognition of Qualifications" decided to develop a web based tool to support all people who are dealing with ECTS in the field of Medicine.

Even if there is already an official Users' Guide available on the internet for all information regarding ECTS, this tool is considered useful to further elaborate on a Manual, which will focus on Medicine and contain examples of good practice.

The advantages are obvious:

- The expertise of the co-ordinators is best secured in a manual.
- By documenting the whole process of ECTS implementation, newcomers in the international business can easily work with it.

That it still is a work in progress, goes without saying.

Each chapter of the manual will be divided in three parts:

- explanation along the wording of the ECTS Users Guide (2005 version)
- link to the official documents (if available)
- examples of best practice (if available)

Comments, additions, examples of best practise etc. are highly appreciated. Contact us:
